

Neil Heimburge
Julie Akers (Heimburge)
6290 Camino Corto
San Diego , CA 92120

619 583-3795

porschebadboy@cox.net

After graduation, I attended Grossmont College, Pierce College, SDSU and USIU where I received my degrees in Physical Education, Industrial Arts, my Teaching credential and my Masters. During college I served two years in the Army and worked for 12 years during the 70's as a state lifeguard during which time I help get started California's first Jr. Lifeguard program. After graduation, for 33 years, I taught Physical Education, Industrial & Technology Education, Coached and had the honor to serve as a mentor teacher for San Diego Unified School District. During this same period of time I served as a consultant to the Calif. State Department of Education in Physical Education, Industrial & Technology Education. In 1992 I married our own Julie Akers. Best decision of my life. Between the two of us we have four wonderful children, two daughters, Jaime and Amanda and two sons, Cory and Brian, which we couldn't be prouder of. We love spending as much time with the family as we can. Amanda and Tyson have been married for three years. Cory and Tina, Brain and Tami are both getting married this year. We couldn't be happier for the four of them. Our free spirited Jaime lives and teaches in New Jersey. We don't have any grandkids yet but we have our fingers crossed. Julie and I are both retired. Julie still works three days a week on special assignments for city schools while redecorating our home. As for myself, I've help run our family business, worked in the yard and of coarse go out racing my Porsche every chance I get (at lease once a month) it would be more if I could afford it. Julie and I like to travel, so I think there will be more travel time in our future.

