I was married in 1967 and have one daughter, Julie. I moved to Southern New Jersey 1968 and worked various jobs there until CBS came to town to make a movie. I just happened to be on vacation at the time so I went to work for them. They convinced me to return to California to work in film. I went to work for Quinn Martin Productions for 7 years doing shows like Cannon, Streets of San Francisco, Barnaby Jones, etc. as a Production Coordinator. In 1979 I moved to Warner Bros. and in 1983 I graduated from TV to Features. I freelanced at other studios as well. Before my retirement in 2010 I had just finished my 12th movie for Clint Eastwood and that was a great honor. I am now really enjoying my retirement and spend a lot of my spare time volunteering for 'Operation Gratitude' packing boxes for soldiers, veterans and wounded warriors.
