I'd always wanted to be a teacher, and after graduating from SDSU and getting my teaching credential, I began work at Chula Vista High School. I stayed at the same school teaching English (And channeling Miss Moore!) until I retired in 2004. Before finishing college, I had married someone I met during my high school senior year—JL Terry. He was a fire captain for San Diego City who also retired in 2004. We had two sons--one is an attorney and the other just finished his masters in education. We all loved to travel and were fortunate to visit Europe, Asia, the South Seas, the Caribbean, as well as much of America. And after retiring, we were able to spend long periods of time fishing, boating and hiking at our “casita” in San Franscisquito, Baja Mexico. It was there that, unfortunately and unexpectedly, my husband died of an aneurysm in 2011. Since my husband’s death, I’ve spent my time continuing to travel, going to the gym (I’m a Zumba addict!), playing bridge and puttering in the proverbial garden.
