My experiences in the Helix music department and subsequent study at Cal State Fullerton under Daniel Lewis were some of my most formative and provided me with wonderful musical memories. After university graduation I went on to study at the Amsterdamsch Conservatorium and, much later, earned a M.M from the University of Victoria. I have been fortunate enough to have earned my living as a musician, playing in various orchestras in California, Oregon, Holland and Canada. I am still enjoying that career and continue to play as a member of the Victoria Symphony and Des Moines Metro Opera.. I also play as much chamber music as possible and teach at the Victoria Conservatory of Music. I have been married to my wonderful husband Max Sternberg for over 39 years. We love living in Victoria and enjoy our cabin on the west coast of Vancouver Island. During our life together we have traveled all over the U.S. and Canada as well as much of Britain, Western Europe, Greece, Turkey, Mexico and Central America. Max retired three years ago from his career as a statistician at Camosun College. We are looking forward to many more travels and adventures together and are headed to Antarctica and South America next year.
